Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Glendale
Daily Press
New Home Is Under Rush
Construction

IN traveling on North Brand boulevard, have you ever noticed the new building being erected on the west side of the street between California and Lexington? If you have not, on your next trip that way, do not fail to look it up.

This building is going to be the new home of the Glendale Daily Press and it will be a home that we can all be proud of. We will be more than glad to move to larger quarters, for it has been difficult to take care of our business as it should be on account of crowded conditions.

THE phenomenal growth of the Glendale Daily Press has been such that we outgrew our clothes the first year. This new home of ours was made possible by the support you gave the rest of our readers have accorded us. You have displayed unusual patience with us. Our papers have been late at times—this was not caused by carelessness of our boys, or by any slip-up in the organization, but mostly on account of printing on a press with a capacity for a paper the size of the Press when it first came out.

When we get into our new building we will have presses of the latest pattern and we can promise that the Glendale Press will be on the streets as soon as our boys get out of school.

BY the signing of a contract with Lindley and Selkirk for the erection of a modern hotel, Glendale has secured a unique record—the record of the only city of 30,000 in America without a hotel. We are to be congratulated on passing up this distinction and those citizens of the east side, who by their untiring energy have at last been rewarded, are to be commended.

AT last night's meeting of the Glendale city council, by a vote of three to two, they voted to join with the Chamber of Commerce in a clean-up campaign. We can see no good reason for any hesitation on this action, or any reason for it not being unanimous. Now that the campaign is assured, it is the duty of every citizen to co-operate to the fullest extent in helping in this general housecleaning—a thorough clean-up is only possible through the aid of our entire citizenship.

This clean-up of the rubbish and weeds will not only help aid to the attractiveness of our city, but will be an aid to health, especially helpful to those who are troubled with hay fever.

FATHER O'NEILL IS TRANSFERRED TO OXNARD

Founder of Holy Family
Parish Is Called Away

The Rev. James S. O'Neill, founder of the Holy Family parish, and for more than sixteen years in charge of the affairs of the parish here, today was transferred to the pastorate of St. Clara's church at Oxnard by Bishop Cantwell.

The removal of Father O'Neill from the Glendale parish, which under his guidance has grown from a mere handful of worshippers to one of the most flourishing parishes in Southern California, came in the nature of a well deserved promotion.

Official announcement of the transfer was made today by Bishop Cantwell, and it came as a surprise to many of the Glendale parishioners.

Father O'Neill will assume the pastorate of the Oxnard church as the successor of the late Rev. James Reardon.

Father O'Neill established the Holy Family church on December 12, 1907, under orders from the late Bishop Conaty. His first church was in a store. By great labor and many sacrifices the parish grew, and a year ago Father O'Neill's work resulted in the building of the present beautiful edifice at 14th and Louise streets, and later the construction of an imposing rectory.

CLEAN UP IS ORDERED BY THE COUNCIL

Votes to Co-operate With the Civic Committee of the City

COST WILL BE $840

Four Five-ton Trucks Will Work One Week Hauling Rubbish

The city council voted Thursday night to co-operate with the civic committee of the various organizations in an annual city clean-up to be held soon. The vote on this question was as follows: Ayes, Robinson, Lapham and Kimlin; Noes, Davis and Stephenson.

The annual clean-up day will cost the city of Glendale at least $840. A report rendered by City Manager Reeves, previous to the taking of the report of this question, disclosed the fact that it would take four 5-ton trucks one week to remove the rubbish that would be placed on the curbs by Glendale citizens. These trucks would cost about $35 per day each, the grand total for the four trucks being $840.

Councilman Kimlin later moved that the public be informed that nothing in the way of rocks, waste building materials or things of that kind would be carried away.

No definite date for the clean-up was given.

COUNCIL DECIDES AGAINST WIG-WAG

In response to a detailed report from the railway commission in regard to the establishing of a wig-wag signal at Gardena avenue by the city of Glendale, the city council last night voted not to comply with the conditions of the report, which stated that the city should erect and maintain the signal. The motion to this effect was made by Councilman Stephenson and seconded by Councilman Lapham.

This action will probably result in the crossing being removed, according to City Attorney Shaw.

WHERE IS HACK? ANYBODY SEEN HIM? ASKS DARO

Where's "Hack?"
Somebody wants him.
That somebody is Lew Daro.
Lew has a fellow under his wing known as Paul Avigliano, 160 pounds, who, Lew says, is the "wrestling" individual the country has ever seen.
Lew claims he can prove this fact.
Therefore, he wants someone to page Hack.
Funny thing about Hack is that he has a happy faculty of being within yelling distance when these "high lights" appear.
No doubt he'll show up in a day or two and welcome friend Paul with open arms.

THURSDAY CLUB HOLDS FORUM MEETING

Baroness de Ropp Is the Principal Speaker of the Afternoon

A better appreciation of the wonderful advantages and opportunities which are enjoyed by the people of the United States was urged in a talk given by Baroness Otilly de Ropp, yesterday afternoon at the forum meeting of the Thursday Afternoon club held in the K. of P. hall, and in which she compared the conditions of soviet Russia with those in America today. The failure of applied bolshevism and communism in Russia was most vividly pictured by the baroness.

"This country should put through a law that all foreigners who stand up and preach against the government and misrepresent it should be sent back to their own countries. Those Americans who do not think this is a good country should be sent on an educational trip to Russia."

A few of the many wonderful things you have here are the railroads, the street cars, the magnificent roads, the convenient homes, your liberal salaries, your free schools and splendid methods of education and religious freedom. These things are too often taken for granted here and not appreciated. The baroness then compared these with conditions in Russia.

The forum was preceded by a short business meeting, with Mrs. W. C. Mabry in charge. An invitation was read from the Tuesday Afternoon club inviting the president and a delegate to attend the reciprocity day at the clubhouse at Lexington drive and Central avenue on April 24. It was announced that at a meeting of the executive board it was decided to hold the Thursday Afternoon club reciprocity day on Thursday, June 7.

Dr. Jessie Russell stated that at the board meeting the executive committee took action in regard to an invitation which had been extended by Community Service of Glendale and will act as hostess on a play day during the week of April 21 to 25, which is National Play Week, for the southern section of the city. Adult play day has been set for Tuesday, April 24. There will be a real play night with old-fashioned games and other entertainment features, which will be free for everyone.

Mrs. Wilbur reported $18.15 shared at a St. Patrick's car party and $20 at a food sale recently held.

Complying with the by-laws, a straw vote for the officers for the coming year was taken for the information of the nominating committee, of which Mrs. A. L. Bancroft is chairman.

Three new members joined the club yesterday. Mrs. J. E. Taggart of 1827 San Fernando road, Mrs. A. G. Coleman of 1829 South San Fernando road and Mrs. Amy L. Hjorth of 132 South Adams street.

PROPOSE CUTTING GENEVA STREET TO GLENDALE

Advancement Association
Seeks Through Highway

At the luncheon meeting of the Glendale Advancement Association held Thursday noon, the most important action came at the close of the session when S. C. Kinch called attention to the situation of Geneva street with relation to Glendale avenue and its similarity to that of Glendale avenue and Brand where an outlet for Glendale onto Brand and its continuation as Glendale boulevard has been achieved by the widening of Forest avenue. Mr. Kinch showed how closely Geneva and Glendale avenue approach at California and suggested that the intervening 150 feet be acquired by the city for the purpose of running Geneva in to Glendale and thus giving it a southern outlet. He declared it would be highly beneficial to the Glendale tract and to Glendale in general. He moved that the paving committee, of which Dr. Stuart is chairman, be instructed to see what steps can be taken to bring about this improvement, and the motion passed unanimously. President Ingledue throwing a spontaneous bouquet to the doctor in the statement "If you want any committee work well done give it to Charley Stuart."

Most of the session was given to a continuation of the serial on the paving suitable for Glendale avenue, the speakers being E. E. East of this city, consulting engineer of the Southern California Automobile Association, and H. W. Bohrmann of the Portland Cement Association of Los Angeles.

Dr. Stuart said he had been informed that at the next meeting of the association a Mr. Hill, representing the "National" type of paving, would address the members on a proposition to use the present foundation of Glendale avenue with a "National" paving superimposed.

The association went on record as opposed to a junk yard in connection with the building to be erected by the Glendale Auto Wrecking company on East Broadway between Adams and Belmont, as being unsightly and detrimental to property values. This action followed the reading of a communication on the subject by Peter Jensen.

Henry M. Butts made a plea for votes for the airport proposition on the ballot at the coming municipal election.

Relative to the hotel to be built at the northeast corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue, President Ingledue reported that a contract had been signed with Architects Lindley and Selkirk for plans and specifications on which they had already done preliminary work to a value of several thousand dollars, and as soon as the specifications were ready they would go to the loan people and action would begin.

James Howarth, secretary of the Harrower Laboratory company, told of the movements of Dr. Harrower who is now abroad, of his keen interest in the report sent him relative to what is going on here, and of his probable return in July or August.

[By Associated Press]
PASADENA, April 6.—Interest in the first annual conference of Rotary clubs of the second district, Rotary International, which is in session here, centered today in the nomination and selection of the next district governor. Announcement will be made this afternoon of the choice of the conference.

This morning Judge Sidney N. Reeves told of the cause, the result and the cure of juvenile delinquency, and Robert G. Sprout spoke of the life of a boy and leading the lad to better things and to good citizenship.

Last evening the subject of the care and education of crippled children, one of the big works of the Rotary organization, was set before the delegates by Ed R. Kelley.

James W. Foley, noted humorist and a member of the Pasadena Rotary club, made a serious strain on the principles of the organization and the duty that was expected of Rotarians.

PASADENA CALLS ROTARIANS FROM GLENDALE

Almost Entire Membership Attends Session of District Conference

With but few exceptions the entire membership of Glendale's Rotary club motored to Pasadena Thursday to attend sessions of the district conference of Rotarians which is being held in that city, and at noon enjoyed their regular luncheon in the grill room of Hotel Maryland. They had as guests a number of distinguished Rotarians, viz: Paul Rieger, president of the San Francisco club; Harry Harper, head of the Los Angeles club; J. Herbert Hall, president of the Pasadena organization; "Jack" Williams of Long Beach, district governor; Charles Bent of Los Angeles; L. L. Test of Pasadena; H. Stuart Johnson, a past president of the Honolulu chapter, also a representative of the Hilo chapter. Be- side these were Mayor Crawford of Burbank and practically the entire membership of the Burbank club, also a large proportion of the Monrovia club.

"France" Henry and Paul Carson led the singing in their customary inspiring manner and then the special guests mentioned were introduced by President Kent, each giving a word of greeting.

The Glendallians were in Rotary convention costume—white trousers and shoes, blue coats, white felt hats encircled with a yellow "Glendale" band, yellow necktie and poppy boutonniere.

They made their entrance into the convention singing the Glendale song, following the banner carried by Ed Niele. Before the program began they sang a number of songs and were complimented by the song leader of the convention who asked them to carry a song through and let the rest of the audience join in the chorus.

The conference opened with a pageant with the stars and stripes wheel dully spun. An unseen speaker gave a talk on Rotary, sketching its beginning and development. When mention was made of the establishment of the first club in Great Britain, it was thrown upon the Union Jack.

As each country in which Rotary flourishes was mentioned, the light flashed on the flag of that land, and during the interims the flags were taken back stage and placed above the Rotary wheel. When the list was complete the center of the stage was illuminated and 19 flags were discovered grouped around Old Glory with the Rotary wheel in front. The light was then turned upon the speaker, garbed in women's wear uniform. In that guise and revealing light she finished her encomium of the movement and what it is accomplishing. The pageant was under the direction of Harold L. Landreth.

An address of welcome was made by J. Herbert Hall, president of the Pasadena club, the response being given by Homer W. Wood, one of the members of the San Francisco club, and now president of one just organized in Petaluma.

The first past president, who was a speaker, touched on all the district conferences held since 1915, and it was found that a number of men were present who had attended them all.

The main feature of the forenoon program was the address of the district governor, John R. Williams, a mastery effort delivered with the virility which marks all his work.

At the afternoon session all the club presidents were introduced and Paul Rieger, of the San Francisco club, gave a very fine address on the reciprocal relations of rotary clubs and individual members, and their mutual responsibility to the club and each other.

Harry Harper, president of the Los Angeles club, also gave an interesting talk on some of the phases of Rotary ethics, stressing the propriety of using the club emblem for personal advantage or advertising, and of belonging to more than one service organization and thus excluding some other man who should have the chance to belong.

Miss Blanche Bowers, a high school teacher of Oakland, gave an address on "The Constructive Man Building of the Boy," citing a number of definite illustrations bearing on the theme and reciting the work for boys of that city.

The last talk of the day was given by Frank Roach of Long Beach on "The Challenge of the Boy" and it was conceded to be a wonderful inspirational address, and the climax of the day's program.

A GENTLE RAIN FALLS

A gentle rain, the kind that is believed to do the most good, fell throughout Thursday night, the precipitation, according to the gauge of T. W. Preston, measuring 0.77 of an inch, up to 7 o'clock this morning. It brought the total for April to 1.35 inches, and total for the season to 11.71, against 27.59 inches at this time last year.

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS APOLOGIZES TO H. B. COURTNEY OF THE SO. CALI- FORNIA GAS CO.

H. P. Courtney of the Southern California Gas company was erroneously reported in part of yesterday's issue of the Glendale Daily Press as being in the county jail on various charges, instead of G. H. Crandall, whom Mr. Courtney of the Southern California Gas company had so reported to the local police department.

Every effort was made by the Glendale Daily Press to catch the error before the issue was completed, but some of the papers were on the street before the error was found.

Of course, Mr. Courtney is so well known in Glendale that the error was obvious to those who have lived any length of time in Glendale. But for the information of those who have not been here long, the Glendale Daily Press wishes to correct its error in so far as it may.

The error occurred in the Glendale Daily Press office, where the similarity of names caused some confusion, but not sufficient to offer, even then, a real reason.

The error just happened. It won't happen again.

tion of the U. S.

The speakers will be Alice Hill, Margaret Masters, Lee Osborne, Donald McMillan and Helen Sherwood. Elsie Forsythe had expected to compete but her small brother destroyed her chances by emptying a bottle of ink over her oration, making it unreadable.

The judges will be W. B. Root, of Jefferson high; Mrs. James McMullin of Lincoln high, and Mr. Herzog. Representatives of the music department under Mrs. Gibson will contribute numbers. The final contest to determine the winner of the capital prize will be held April 24.

EXCHANGE CLUB MARKS BIRTHDAY

Glendale Unit Celebrates
With Dinner Dance at Sunset Canyon

POETICAL CONTEST

Only Three Respond to Call of "Poets" and Are Fined

The Exchange club of Glendale last night celebrated the twelfth anniversary of the birth of Exchange with a dinner dance at the Sunset Canyon Country club. There was a very large birthday cake with twelve candles, which was cut during the evening by the wife of Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, president of the Glendale club.

The feature of the dinner-dance was the spring poets' contest. Every member present was called upon to read a poem of his own composition. It is a singular fact that only three failed to respond and these were penalized by having to feed the "kitty." Three of his ladies present were appointed judges of the poems. The prize, in the form of a handsome silver cup, donated by Captain W. B. Kelly of 106 West Colorado street, was awarded to Exchangeette Fred E. Hoyt of the Court Shops. The presentation of the cup was made by Mr. Glendon.

J. Frank Glendon, president of the Los Angeles Exchange club, and a number of other members of that organization were present. He gave a most interesting talk about the history of the Exchange clubs and their activities.

Mr. Glime, also of the Los Angeles Exchange club, told of the benevolent work which is being carried on by that organization. Fourteen day nurseries, which are under the supervision more or less of the Los Angeles schools, have been adopted by the club. Each nursery is in charge of a member of the club who visits it each week and reports regarding the needs of the youngsters. At present there is a call being put in for toys, which will be provided for this charitable work, which is being carried on, brightening the lives of some 600 children.

CITY COUNCIL TO SEEK LOWER FARE FROM THE P. E.

City Attorney to Prepare Brief for the City of
Glendale

The city attorney was instructed by the city council Thursday night to prepare a brief asking the state railroad commission to lower the Pacific Electric fares between Los Angeles and Glendale from 38 cents to 25 cents maximum.

This action was taken in response to a request made by Peter L. Ferry, chairman of the railroad committee of the Glendale chamber of commerce.

"At an interview we had with the officials of the Pacific Electric company a few days ago Mr. Pon-tius hinted that he would be willing to give Glendale a lower fare if he could do so without having to give all of the other cities served by the P. E. lower rates," said Mr. Ferry. "We feel there is a chance to get the fares between this city and Los Angeles lowered. Nothing should be left undone that would have any bearing on this subject."

The motion to instruct the city attorney to prepare such a brief was made by Councilman Stephenson and seconded by Councilman Lapham.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF EAGLE ROCK CITY

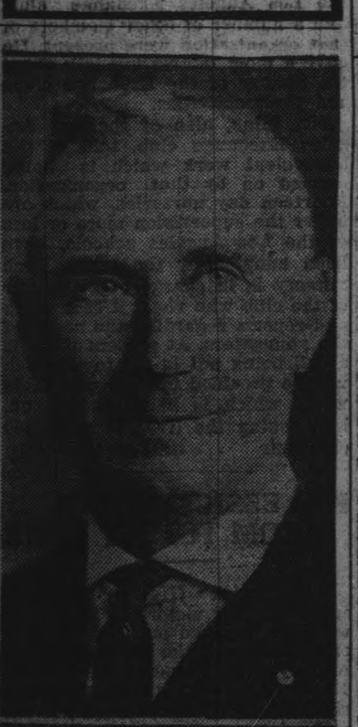

ANNEXATION IS BIG THEME OF C. OF C. MEET

Godfrey Edwards and His Committee Report on Their Work

At last night's Chamber of Commerce meeting Godfrey Edwards figured prominently throughout the evening because of his active work with the committee formed after the election to see that Los Angeles kept the needs of Eagle Rock well in mind. He was called upon frequently to state his observations on various issues. Concomitant with the consolidation problems in minutest detail, Mr. Edwards was able to assure those present of the immediate action, and interest that the Los Angeles administration is taking toward improving existing conditions in Eagle Rock. In his main talk, Mr. Edwards stated that since the annexation war is over, and conditions are fairly normal again, there are two causes for rejoicing over the election. First of these is the good fellowship and sportsmanship that was displayed by the "ants," and the spirit of helpfulness shown by the Los Angeles city officials. Their immediate co-operation at the close of the issue is highly commendable.

The second cause, Mr. Edwards stated, is the cordial and helpful attitude of Los Angeles officials during the readjustment period after the "war."

Mr. Edwards then read the names of citizens drafted on committees covering all of the local problems. A head committee was organized, he explained, and in action by noon of the day following the election, Mr. Edwards characterized it as a "hand picked crowd," and went on to explain that met with influence through friendship or business acquaintance with the city officials were chosen to present the needs of Eagle Rock. The men on this committee are: S. B. Osborne, chairman of the board of trustees; C. J. Root, president of the chamber of commerce; C. C. Spencer, who has been for a long time connected with the bureau of power and light; J. Hartley Taylor and Godfrey Edwards.

Sub-committees of this were developed, to report on the local problems. Chief among these, of course, was the effective date of annexation. Mr. Spencer, also serving on the committee to investigate this, stated that the city attorney of Los Angeles, recommended that the resolution passed at the last trustees' meeting be filed with him at once. Mr. Spencer during a conference with the city clerk of Los Angeles, was told that a sub-office would not be held open here, with a deputy city clerk in charge. Mr. Dominguez, further stated that all possible will be done to retain the oldest faithful employees. Later, growing out of this report, a motion was passed that a resolution be presented to the Los Angeles officials to retain Benjamin Martosoff, Mrs. Gardiner, Albert, Mr. Eckert, of the water department, and Claude Bramble.

Godfrey Edwards was enthusiastically applauded when he stated definite projects under consideration for Eagle Rock. One of these was the establishment of an enlarged fire department, to be equipped with a chemical standard steam engine, and a medium sized hook and ladder. This department will care for all of the valley, upper Glendale Park and York boulevard included.

Mr. Edwards also paid tribute to the "faithful boys," as he called those men who have served in office here many years. He cited several—Mr. Bramble, Mr. Eckert, Mr. Martosoff, Mr. Pearson, and others.

He suggested that a committee set out at once to change the street names that need to be changed, so that the new administration will now undertake another change. Mr. Edwards also stated that there will in all probability be no bond issue for water, and there is a fair prospect that the present water bond will be retired.

Mr. Edwards enthusiastically boosted for a strong chamber of commerce campaign.

Before the adjournment of the meeting, Mr. Root, president, signified his intention to resign, due to the fact that he goes away on business sometime next month, and he does not wish to start the new work and leave it.

BRAND BOULEVARD LOTS ACTIVE IN SALES

More Brand boulevard sales were consummated on Wednesday, according to realty agents. A lot on Brand boulevard about 160 feet north of Maple street, belonging to Earl Pendroy, also a lot adjoining it, belonging to D. B. Hanna, were reported as sold on that day by Usilton & Benner of Brand and Wilson, to Mrs. Anna Darling of Hollywood and Miss Harling of Pasadena. Both purchased for investment and the consideration is said to have been $15,000 in each case. In consummating the deal Mr. Usilton said he traveled ninety-three miles between Glendale and Pasadena on the day mentioned.

CANDIDATES' FORUM

This department will be at the service of all candidates and their supporters for the city council for the expression of their views and the publication of their platform without charge, from now until the close of the campaign. The only condition attached to publication of matter in this column is that it shall be courteous, unbiased, temperate, if argumentative. The standing of the candidates in the community, the personal sacrifices involved in serving the city would of themselves eliminate personalities, without this statement. Manuscripts must be typewritten and on one side of the paper. Brevity is the soul of argument.

To the Citizens of Glendale:
I am a candidate for one of the two vacancies of councilmen for Glendale and ask your support at the polls.

My platform is not filled with promises and my motto is:
Elect a business man to help run the city's business.

EFFECT ON L. A. BOND ISSUE OF EAGLE ROCK

"How will the immediate annexation of Eagle Rock to Los Angeles affect the bond issue which comes before the people of that city in June, from a legal standpoint?" This grew to be the important question of the hour at the chamber of commerce meeting in the city hall last night. After conferring with S. B. Osborne over the telephone, it was decided by those present to form a committee to investigate this matter thoroughly and take whatever action then agreed upon. The committee thus appointed consists of Rollin Mc Nitt, C. C. Spencer and S. B. Osborne. These three will meet with the Los Angeles city attorney, to decide whether the consolidation should be effected immediately or delayed until after the bond issue is closed.

Mr. Smith of the Sawtelle Chamber of Commerce made a splendid talk, dealing chiefly with the progress of Sawtelle since it began as a few independent squatter shacks which did not attract the attention of the city, without streets, lights, gas, or any modern conveniences. "It is great to be in the beginning of things," Mr. Smith said, "great to be a pioneer, to watch things grow, to see them culminate, and here we are all in the beginning of things, the beginning of Los Angeles, the adventurous city. And some day we shall see nearly all of Los Angeles county one vast metropolis. Perhaps we will not see it, but our children, or our children's children will."

Mr. Smith then went on to say that Eagle Rock has a better start in the annexation problem than Sawtelle had. After Sawtelle became a definite part of Los Angeles there was no paid secretary on hand to present the wants of Sawtelle to the city officials. So a group of business men would spend hours away from their business, chafing their problems out in the office of the Los Angeles administration. And finally, with things moving so slowly, Mr. Smith said, "Now these men don't want us down here—washing all our dirty linen in public. Let's go back to Sawtelle and when we have it all freshly laundered let us bring it down here for them to inspect." So, Mr. Smith said, they all went back home and thrashed out their own problems, decided on the vital issues, presented their plans, and received most everything that they wanted. In the beginning Sawtelle had four police, and today the district boasts thirty-one. The old fire department possessed one rickety Ford, painted red. Now an immense fire alarm system protects the entire district about Sawtelle. A new city building to cost from $110,000 to $125,000 will be erected soon and $35,000 has been allocated for the new fire department.

Mr. Smith urged a strong chamber of commerce campaign. It is the central figure between the people of the suburb and the officials in Los Angeles, and especially necessary after consolidation. Mr. Smith suggested that Eagle Rock hold a grand celebration when the definite consolidation takes place. And he went on to say, "Don't knock if you don't get all that you ask for. Consider the turkey on the fence. When the farmer went to catch it with a huge club in his hand, it flew down on the other side and ran away, but when he approached it with a handful of corn it came to him willingly."

Don't speak your mind unless you have a mind to say something.

COMMUNITY PLAYS CHILDREN MAY NOW DRAW APPLAUSE AGAIN RECEIVE CLINIC SERVICES

At the second presentation last night of the three one-act plays planned for March, the Community Players were met with applause and appreciation. The plays were clever and unique, and the dramatic work under the direction of Mrs. Fischer, highly satisfactory. "As Ye Sow," written by Miss Marjorie Sinclair, was made a special feature of the three productions, owing to the fact that not only Miss Sinclair appeared as one of the leading roles, but through her arrangement with the management of the Smith-King Players of Pasadena, with whom she is now appearing, Mr. Hugh Metcalf, a member of the same company, appeared in the cast.

Both of the other playlets were well presented and well received by the audience.

O. A. Lane Denies Selling Chestnut and Brand Corner

Rumors that the property at the southeast corner of Chestnut and Brand which is being improved with a building containing four store rooms with apartments above by O. A. Lane, has been sold, are at fault, says Mr. Lane. He has owned the property for twelve or more years and says he has no intention of parting with it.

HOLY FAMILY CARD PARTY CLEARS $50

The door prize in the afternoon went to Mrs. Noelle and in the evening to Mrs. C. M. Buckley of Los Angeles.

In the afternoon an interesting musical program was given, including vocal numbers by Mrs. Antunex, vocal duets by Miss Dorothy Vogel and Mrs. Anna Simmons, vocal solo by Mrs. DeMars and piano number by little Betty Heustis. The entertainment in the evening included songs by Edwin Albright, Mrs. Olds of Los Angeles, Mrs. DeMars, Mrs. Brasher, vocal duets by Mrs. Gots and Miss Vogel, and readings by Mr. Vimmer and Mrs. Fanganian.

GANG OF FORGERS DECEAUS IN VENICE [By Associated Press]

VENICE, Cal., April 6.—A clever gang of forgers working on the Venice Pier relieved two concessionaires of $75. The men cashed printed pay checks for $32.50 of a big Los Angeles concern after spending a few dollars in the concessions. Then men produced fictitious business cards of the concern to prove their identity.

D. H. SMITH, Vice President and Manager
Brand Boulevard Branch

D. H. Smith

The motto of the Glendale Branches of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank is its official personnel. The officers of this bank are men who, through constant contact over a period of a number of years, have gained an intimate knowledge of local business conditions. The customers of this bank have the advantage of that experience. Discussion of business and financial problems with our officers has oftentimes prevented unwise, unprofitable and even, perhaps, disastrous investments.

These branches have also an executive board, composed of local men who are representative of and conspicuously associated with the advancement of the various industries of the community. This experience is also available to the customers of the bank through its officers.

For authoritative information not included within the scope of their local experience, the officers can call upon the central office in Los Angeles, where the services of high-salaried specialists in every phase of banking and finance are available to the entire system at all times. There, also, is located the Research Department, through whose exhaustive studies of economic conditions covering not only local but also national and even world-wide fields it is possible for the officers of the Glendale Branches to secure information desired for use in the management of this bank and in supplying to customers desired information with reference to any phase of commerce and industry.

Through these three sources of knowledge—(1) the experience of their local officers and Executive Board, (2) the services of financial experts in the central office, and (3) the studies of the Research Department, the Glendale Branches are able to render unusually valuable service.

The relationship between a bank and its patrons must be reciprocal. Only to the extent that the community prospers can the banks prosper. Unless the banks thrive, industry cannot be financed and community prosperity is in jeopardy. The prosperity of a community is the total of the prosperity of its individual citizens—the banks' customers. So, therefore, it may be seen that it is not only desirable from the standpoint of service for the officers to provide their customers with the benefit of their experience, but also because as the patrons' business grows he becomes more valuable to the bank. For this reason, if for no other, customers should feel no hesitancy in calling upon the officers of their bank for such information as they may desire.

At this time no earthly thought should intrude. This is no time for jarring sound, no place for any accident, ill-advised movement or unforeseen interruption. Every movement must be planned—every accident forestalled. Nothing of this last sacred rite can be left to chance. WAR MOTHERS TO ENTERTAIN VETS AT L. A. HUT

Mrs. James Webb Chaves
With Supply for Chicken
Dinner and Pie

In conformity with the arrangement entered into by chapters of War Mothers and auxiliaries of legion posts in Los Angeles county to entertain ex-service men at the Los Angeles Hut, 1028 Figueroa street, twice a month with a hot dinner, Mrs. James Webb of this city, who is a member of the Lester Meyer Chapter, motored to Los Angeles Wednesday with supplies for a chicken dinner topped with lemon pie. She was accompanied and assisted by Mrs. Florence Padelford, and the table was spread for fourteen disabled ex-soldiers, two of them new arrivals from San Diego.

The lemon pie made a tremendous hit, one grateful boy coming to Mrs. Webb after the meal to especially thank her. So ill is he that soon after he had spoken to her he fainted away and was unconscious for some time. All the boys are so pathetically weak that Mrs. Webb says a visit to the hut would inspire any one to do everything possible for their pleasure and comfort. She wishes that more Glendaleans would make the trip. Also guests of Mrs. Webb were the secretary and the instructor in art work at the hut.

Under the arrangement entered into by the chapters and auxiliaries mentioned, a hot dinner is served to the boys every day, the ladies of the organizations taking turns under a schedule.

Mrs. Webb's motherly heart was wrung by the suffering of these victims of war who were her guests, none of whom she believes will be here a year hence.

LA CRESCENTA, April 6.—The improvement of the various roads and highways in this district, fire protection and equipment, gas, and improved telephone service, were topics of discussion at the regular meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association last night. The meeting was presided over by President C. E. Culberson and Dr. J. G. Telfer, the newly appointed secretary. A special meeting of the association was called by President Culberson for Thursday evening, April 19, when some members of the board of supervisors and road departments will meet with the association and decide on improvements planned. A dance will be given on Saturday evening, April 21, the proceeds to be used for needed equipment for the fire truck.

JERRY JETER FOLKS COME FAST AND FURIOUS

"There is a big difference in being whitewashed and in being washed white," said Jerry Jeter last night at his tabernacle.

"But few women ever die of rust on their tongues. You cannot depend on your conscience to guide you. Some people's conscience is dead and buried and the tombstone erected. You say, 'Mr. Jeter, you rub the cat the wrong way.' I say let the old cat turn around then. Some day the bark may be ripped off of your life and the world will see how full of worm holes you are. The dogs sneak off when they see some men coming home. Some act like saints in the church on Sunday morning and at home like demons."

"Evangelist Jeter spoke last night at the tabernacle on the corner of Cedar and Broadway on 'Revival Power.' Mr. Jeter was perhaps at his best so far in the campaign. He seems to believe that the only thing that will really save the country is for the people to turn to God in a great revival."

"When the Jewish nation turned from God in olden times it suffered in bondage, and when this nation forgets God, shoves Him off of its program it will suffer likewise."

Mrs. Jeter spoke yesterday at 2:30 on "Personal Work and How to Do It." Those who heard Mrs. Jeter are well pleased, so they say, and some say that they think she is a better speaker than her husband. In inviting some of his friends to hear Mr. Jeter speak, she asked them: "Do you like fun, beauty and spirituality? Then come and hear Jerry."

The firm of Haddock & Nibley asked at the council meeting last night that a portion of frontage on Glendale avenue, south of Monterey road be made a commercial district. The date for hearing of protests against this action was set for April 26.

A similar request was made by the owners of the Bellehurst tract in connection with lots 1 to 28, 37, 38, 39, 147, 148, 149, 187 to 194 and 233 to 243. April 26 was set as the date when protests against this action will be heard.

City Engineer Dupuy recommended that a strip of land extending from Tenth to Kennell on Raymond, belonging to the city, be given for street purposes. This was done on request of J. M. Boland.

A petition for the opening of Eighth street from Pacific to Grand View was received. This contained 82 per cent of the property owners in the proposed district and 72 per cent of the frontage on the proposed street. City attorney was instructed to draft the necessary proceedings.

Maps of Tracts Nos. 6303 and 3086 were presented and approved.

A petition was received from Peter Jensen, the Harrower laboratory and others asking that the board prohibit the use of property bounded between Belmont and Adams for an auto disassembling plant or junk yard. The council members signified their intention of giving no permit for the operation of a junk shop on Broadway.

As there were no protests against the changing and re-establishing the grade on Highland avenue, the next step in this work was ordered taken.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution ordering work on the first alley east of Louise, between Harvard and Broadway.

A resolution awarding the contract for the improvement of Gilbert street and Pacific avenue to W. J. Kern.

A resolution awarding the contract for the improvement of Magnolia avenue.

A resolution ordering the changing and re-establishing of the grade of Highland avenue.

A resolution vacating a certain road in Sparr Heights.

An ordinance accepting deed and naming a portion of Dorsey drive. The name of Fifth street in the northwest district was changed to Oakland road.

In response to a letter asking that East Cypress street be repaired, the city engineer was instructed to write to the property owners informing them that a new street will be needed.

A petition was received asking that Wing street be improved with 3-inch macadam. Mr. Smith, owner of this property, was informed that this work would be rushed. City engineer and city attorney were instructed to draw up the necessary proceedings.

The city of Glendale was granted an extension of 60 days in the installing of ornamental lights on Louise street.

An ordinance changing Jackson, Wilson to Doran, was referred to the city attorney.

An ordinance creating a commercial district on Verdugo road at Alpha road was laid over for one week.

The matter of transferring $1200 from the park and recreation unappropriated reserve fund to the park and recreation fund was referred to the city attorney.

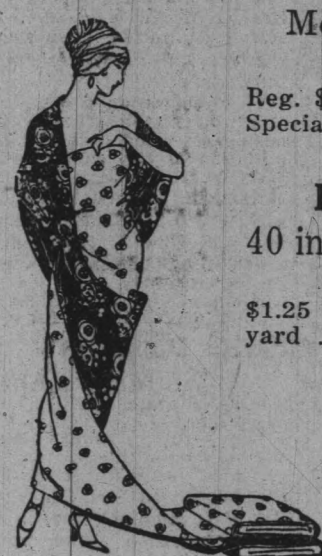

THE MARKETS

[By Associated Press]
NEW YORK, April 6.—Most stocks made further recovery from recent heaviness in today's session. The federal reserve board's optimistic summary of business and credit conditions, and the decision of the railroads to purchase over a billion dollars' worth of equipment this year in anticipation of record-breaking traffic encouraged a resumption of operations for the rise. Chemicals and some of the domestic oils, however, were comparatively heavy. Sales approximated 950,000 shares.

Secretary Mellon's declaration that there was plenty of credit available for investment purposes and the optimistic tone of the weekly summary of the federal reserve bank encouraged a resumption of speculative operations for the rise at the opening of today's stock market. The initial demand was most effective in the steel, equipment, motor, sugar and a few selected rail shares. Baltimore and Ohio advanced 1 1/8. Virginia Carolina Chemical dropped 3/4 to a new low record for the year. Announcement of higher prices for refined sugar brought new buying into that group, Manati rising 3 points and Punta Alegre, American Beet Sugar and American Cane preferred 1 to 1 1/4. Pullman led the equipments with a gain of 1 1/4. Lima Locomotive advanced 1 and Baldwin 3/4. Studebaker and Chandler each advanced a point and Willys-Overland preferred 2 1/4. American Can, Rock Island and Southern Railway also were strong. Strength of French francs which advanced 8 points to 5.63 cents, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady just below $4.67.

Motor car production for the first three months of the year aggregated 867,628 cars and trucks—more than double the number manufactured during the corresponding period last year. March production, reports to the National Automobile chamber of commerce show, were 346,383 cars and trucks exceeding by 57,000 the record of 289,011 produced in June, 1922.

Three of the five local refiners today advanced the price of refined sugar 20 to 25 points, the new quotations ranging from 890 to 925 cents a pound.

METHODIST WOMEN HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly all-day meeting of women's societies of the First Methodist church of this city was held Thursday, beginning at 10 o'clock, with a business session of the Ladies' Aid society. At noon a bountiful luncheon was served to 120 ladies and this was followed by a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society at 1 o'clock. At 2 o'clock the Women's Home Missionary society celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of home missionary societies. Each of the eight groups constituting the society was represented on the program by a number. These took the form of demonstrations of departmental work. In some instances spread umbrellas were decorated to symbolize an idea. Mrs. Ewing represented "The Beacon," the official missionary paper.

Tea was served with a birthday cake. Mrs. Lacey presiding over the refreshment table. Mrs. C. W. Ingledue was the presiding officer of the meeting.

Colorado Fathers Organize Auxiliary

At the Fathers' night entertainment given the members of the Colorado street Parent-Teachers' association last night, under the direction of Bert Woodard and his committee, a fathers' auxiliary of this association was organized, with Mr. Woodard as chairman. A short business meeting of the regular P.T.A. preceded the program, with Mrs. E. S. McKee in charge.

The program for the evening included a talk to the fathers by Richardson D. White, secretary, by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard; readings by Joe Griffin, "Casey at the Bat" and "The Cat"; a half-hour's sleight-of-hand performance which was of equal interest to the children and grown-ups, by A. R. "Fubing" of Los Angeles; readings by Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale Federation of P.T.A. A mock trial was conducted by the men, at which Miss Waite was on trial, and created a great deal of merriment. She was acquitted and then presented with a basket of flowers, expressing appreciation for her work. She responded with a pleasing talk.

Despite the rain there was a large crowd present. After the program a social hour was enjoyed, during which the men served refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, and home-made cake.

"DRIVEN" AT THE T. D. & L. THEATER IS EXCEPTIONAL

After witnessing "Driven," the Charles Brabin-Universal-Jewel feature which is showing at the T. D. & L. theatre, it is easy for the reviewer to understand why this picture was selected by the Exceptional Pictures Committee of the National Board of Review for mention. It really is a film masterpiece and too great praise cannot be accorded the director and the cast of splendid actors and actresses who brought it into being.

Truths in Epigram

The absolute justice of the state, lightened by the perfect reason of the state. That is law.—Choate.

Laws grind the poor, and rich men rule the law.—Goldsmith.

Ignorance of the law excuses no man; not that all men know the law, but because 'tis the excuse every man will plead, and one can tell how to refute him.—Selden.

THE SHIFTING OF MORALS

Time was when an American, reading tales of the Arabian desert, noticed with wonder that a traveler, straying from the caravan, was in danger of being robbed, and perhaps murdered. He thought with pride that in his own country, it was safe for the lone pedestrian to rove at will, with no thought of an enemy attack, no fear of bandits, no tremor at the approach of a stranger. There has been a change. Whatever may be conditions in the desert, the element of safety on the highways of the land of the free, has diminished. The old feeling of security is no more. It is, perhaps, difficult to account for this. The common practice is to ascribe it to the late war. This may have had an influence, and may not. At least no proponent of the theory has yet been able to prove his case. In large measure the boldest and most aggressive criminals go unpunished. Either they evade capture, or having been caught, escape by the use of a trick lawyer. Such facts doubtless have effect.

Often drivers in remote places would be glad to pick up the footman trudging along in the dust, but they dare not. So many good Samaritans have done so, only to be assailed, and in instances slain by the beneficiary, that the proffer of the favor is not regarded as safe. On the other hand, drivers with the most sinister motives, have extended the courtesies of their machines, spitting the passenger to some possibly fearful fate. Thus it is that a gentleman hesitates to ask a woman if he may give her a lift, knowing the chances are that she will repel him. And for her to decline is wise, because a gentleman not always is distinguishable at a glance.

Recently an automobile was wrecked on a highway much-used. Under the machine was one of the passengers, dead or dying. The frantic driver was unable to lift the weight. For more than an hour he sought to stop passing cars in order to get help. Every car sped away at accelerated speed, impelled by fear. Had the true situation been known every one would have stopped instantly. The drivers were not heartless. They suspected a trap, for many such traps have been set, and they were afraid.

It is a sad revelation of decadence of morals that may be read in decadence of manners. The spirit of self-protection, evoked by the presence of danger, finds expression in a degree of boorishness that in almost any other circumstances would be wanton and inexcusable.

HABITS OF EATING

"For good living," says the writer of a special article, "sign on with a working gang." He proceeds to tell of the skill of camp cooks in the handling of the staples that enter into the bill of fare: The principal essentials, are bread, meat and potatoes. Strangely enough these articles are the ones mostly banned by various so-called experts on diet. Overlooking the fact that countless generations have thrived on white bread, the denunciation this food as poison. To potatoes they ascribe so much starch that they advocate but sparing indulgence, while many of them place meat wholly in the discard.

Naturally the men in a grading or lumber camp come to the table with good appetite. They eat quantities, and enjoy qualities that might not appeal to others engaged in less strenuous exertion. Nevertheless were the substantial mentioned, quite so bad as the theorists declare, there would be protests and riot, to say nothing of sickness. The one thing that above all others, laborers in such places demand, is plenty of bread, and it must be good bread. Were the cook to produce a leaden batch of it, he would soon be running down the trail, a mob in pursuit. Indeed, this has happened.

To sing the praises of the camp cook, argues the possession of a large yearning for sustenance, and a fine digestion. The food is wholesome, and it must be well prepared, but few outsiders, sampling it on occasion, would get enthusiastic over it. However, the fact that it is satisfactory to those before whom it is set, and that it provides them with health and strength, would seem to be vindication of the oft abused and traduced trio of edibles.

ELIMINATING THE FORESTS

The chief forester of the agricultural department foresees the extinction of the timber supply within fifty years. This assumes, of course, a continuance of the present policy of waste, and lack of replacement. There is no valid reason why extinction should be expected. It could be prevented. Adequate protection of the wooded region would cost about 3 cents annually. If an acre of standing timber is not deemed worth three cents, the public, being thrifty, will permit it to vanish, the ground in many instances reverting to wilderness, which is worth nothing.

Destruction by fires is enormous, and in part, inevitable. Most of the fires are due to carelessness. As to many of them there is reason to suspect the incendiary. All this is an old story. So is the fact that a lumber concern commissioned to harvest all the merchantable trees in a certain tract, manages to leave such as cannot be utilized, nothing but an array of blackened stumps. Ground that has borne trees may bear another crop if properly treated. If the removal of one tree required its replacement by another, there never could be the barren stretches of desolation marking the spots where only a few years ago were virgin forests. When no effort is made to redeem the logged-over area, the rains quickly wash away the earth. Deep gullies appear. Soon the top soil has been swept into the valleys, and then it is too late. The site of the former timber has become a sterile waste. But all this, too, is an old story.

Communities have undertaken reforestation with much success. There are splendid trees on the watershed above Pasadena planted there by Mr. Lukens at an early day in the history of the city. Similar processes might be inaugurated wherever trees grow, and have to be cut for lumber. There are varieties that mature rapidly. Nevertheless the standing timber is permitted to be sacrificed, and generally there is not manifest the slightest desire to make good the loss.

Rear Admiral Sims broadcasted by radio a defense of the naval policy, that takes battleship and submarine base away from San Pedro. Doubtless he knows more of the subject than could be expected of a civilian. Doubtless, also the people interested in the harbor are willing to abide by any decision for the common good. Nevertheless they do not see why it is necessary in devising plans for the defense of this coast to leave the harbor, and the populous community near it, out of all consideration.

California merchants return from Mexico with enthusiastic accounts of the business prospects there, the chance for investment, the good order, and the fine purpose of the Mexican government. Nevertheless that government continues under the handicap of non-recognition by its most influential neighbor. There is a growing curiosity touching the matter.

THE DUST OF ANTIQUITY

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Spreading his arms as if to embrace all the molten relics of the ages, a state separator in Sacramento the other day refused to vote for the bill making it possible for three-fourths of a jury to return a decision in criminal cases not involving the death penalty.

But it is his reason—or rather his excuse—that fixes the attention. "I will not," he cried—and you could almost hear him sobbing over the grave of the past—"I will not vote to destroy an institution that has existed for 1100 years."

Leaving aside the detail that it's news to some of us that our jury system had endured any such time; and charitably refraining from any reflection on the gentleman's knowledge of judicial and legislative history, may we not be permitted to call attention to a few facts about antiquities?

Why should an institution, because at one period of history it serves the need of men, come to be regarded as something sacred and entitled to an undeserved immortality? Institutions are created to meet human needs; when they no longer serve their purpose they should, so to speak, be honorably retired. Imagine how our statute books would be cluttered if, through sentiment was insisted in keeping on them every obsolete and archaic law passed by our ancestors, and for no better reason than these things had for a long time served mankind.

We have no such sentiment in regard to living things that have served their time. True, humane people care for animals that have passed their usefulness, but, imagine, if you can, a legislator arising and making a tearful plea to the nation that it preserve in corals all the lame and blind mules that patriotically or unwillingly had served in the late war? However, it costs money to preserve mules; but we might on the score of embalmment sentiment stuff their skins and set them up in the National Museum. It would be less disastrous and less costly than preserving all the archaic laws passed by our ancestors.

Our jury law as it now stands has for some time shown itself wholly inadequate to meet the needs of even handed justice; that should condemn it regardless of its age. Maybe it worked better when it was young and people had correspondingly greater respect for it.

It's doddering now and most jurymen are thrilled with the idea of seeing how greatly the feeble thing can be misused. Bating the jury system is one of the greatest of our national sports. When anything becomes a football for boneheads it's time it was put painlessly to sleep or else got glanded into an artificial usefulness.

These few thoughts are offered for the consideration of the honorable state senator.

We need a new jury law more than we need hokum or a museum of legislative antiquities.

THE RIGHT WORD

TEACHING ENGLISH BY RADIO
(Find the error in this article.)

At eight o'clock (central time) this evening "The Right Word" will again be broadcast. Look up the radio programs of the WOR Station in this evening's paper. You will find the announcement. On March 2, 16, and 30 short talks on good English went out from the same station.

"Tune in" on WOR this evening. Among other things the author of "The Right Word" will pronounce correctly a number of words that have given you trouble in the past. Do you know how to pronounce the following words: palatine, suave, suavity, municipal, deficit, emul, appendicitis? Listen in and you will hear these words pronounced together with others in which you may be interested.

Realizing the interest attached to broadcasting, pronunciation of words, a letter from you, telling how well you heard and how far you were from the station, will be appreciated.

Yesterday's Error

The female has real talent.

Right: The woman has real talent.

Vocabulary

When some one tells you your meaning is obscure, he means that what you say is inabstruse, misty, and lacking in distinctness and sharpness of outline. "He is of obscure birth," you say, and you mean that he was born apart from public observation, is little known, and is, hence, lowly or humble. A place may be obscure or dusky, if it is dim, faint, or indistinct because gloom or shade obstructs clear vision.

Quotations

F. W. Young of Verona, N. J., writes: "Would be pleased to hear your opinion on the correct use of the word datum." Is it correct to say, "The datum is"? This is a question regarding which the writer has heard considerable discussion. The only correct way to write a sentence in which data is subject is, "The data are." Since datum is singular, "The datum is" is correct. Do not start a sentence in such a manner as the following: "Would be pleased." Begin with a subject, as, "We should be pleased." Also note that it is incorrect to say, "We would be pleased."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

What is it to be good?
That is an easy question to ask and yet a difficult one to answer with satisfaction to everybody.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Is it to refrain from violating the laws?
That is hardly enough.

A fence post does that.

And you might refrain from violating any law and yet be as colorless as a fence post.

To refrain from violating laws is perhaps only an incident of goodness.

Is it to contribute to charities?
That is hardly enough, because you might get money by shady and tricky means and give a lot of it to charities so-called and yet you would hardly meet the requirements of goodness.

Is it to make a formal profession of religion?
That is hardly enough because a great many hypocrites make formal protestations and professions of religion, and they would hardly be called good.

We have to look further than that.

Is it to obey all the laws?
That is hardly enough.

Because there is no law compelling you to help the needy.

And yet if you did not offer to help in time of need you would hardly be good, in the eyes of the philanthropist at least.

Is it to be without sin?
That depends on what we term sin.

Many persons do not agree as to what is sin and what is not.

It is largely a question of definition.

Is it to provide well for the immediate family?
That may be a part of goodness. And yet the philosopher might tell you that it would be more generous to provide for those in need in a far country, and cut down the fat family allowance a little.

Is it to be exactly and strictly and invariably and rigidly honest?
That depends on what honesty is.

Many a man is absolutely honest in the matter of money who is altogether dishonest in the matter of politics and civic duty and quasi-public responsibilities.

When we attempt to define goodness and sin and honesty and justice and a lot of abstract things we get soon into deep water.

A man might commit crime under pressure.

And the law might say he should be sent to prison.

And the advocate of law might claim imprisonment to spell justice.

And yet in the particular instance it might spell injustice.

So it is not altogether easy to say what it is to be good.

For there is good and evil in all of us.

And much depends on the point of view.

Is it to do nothing evil?
That is hardly sufficient, for a hermit in the wilderness might do nothing evil and yet be of no use to anybody or the world.

So sinless hermitage is not enough.

Is it to be without sin?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

It often has been said that no man is so bad that in him there is not something good.

Herbert E. Dyer was a convict at Folsom. This argued that he was bad. He risked his life and lost it, in saving the life of a prison guard. This was an even stronger argument for the existence of good in his composition.

The prisoner was under no definite obligation to do as he did. Self preservation is a human law from the workings of which prisoners are not exempt. The obligation, if one is admitted, was the same as would have been felt by any courageous man. There are heroes in every walk of life. Perhaps it is not customary to find them in the particular walk occupied by a long-term prisoner.

Nevertheless, a prisoner, paying the penalty for misdeeds, if he bears his burden with patience, realizing that justice is being done; refrains from hating the society he had wronged, for sending him there, and finally goes forth to battle manfully with conditions, has many of the elements of a real hero. When he lays down his life for his friend, none would withhold the need of praise.

If Dyer had people who were humiliated by his earlier conduct, it is their right to try to forget that portion, remembering only that in the crisis, when the game of fate demanded his life, or the life of another, he was brave with the complete bravery that is real and unfeigned, and that, despite error and evil record, is the sign of nobility of soul.

Because one juror left the others deliberating while he went to a retiring room long enough to wash his hands, a new trial is demanded for the defendant the jury convicted.

Perhaps this is a good reason. It is not for a layman to say. But at first glance it doesn't look so very good.

Ex-cabinet ministers of Bulgaria have been sentenced to life imprisonment. They fare a little better, or a little worse, according to the point of view, than the late cabinet members of Greece, who were stood in a row and shot. The offense in both instances was the same. Both countries had been led into a war they did not want. Both were defeated, and thus plunged into a morose humor.

If every instigator of needless war were to pay so stiff a penalty, the habit of sending citizens to fight about nothing, doubtless would be checked.

Russian bolsheviks have sent a rebuke to Poland for having "interfered with Russian justice." It happens that the Poles are unable to work miracles, and so could not have acted as charged. They could not have interfered with the non-existent. So far as the world has been able to ascertain there is no bolshevik justice. There is tyranny, greed, brutality, but of the admirable quality mentioned, not a trace.

Workmen at Krupp's go out on strike. There being fifty thousand of them, the move might be embarrassing even to the armed forces of France.

Viewed at a distance, the men would seem likely to be doing better for themselves in clinging to their jobs and drawing wages. Fifty thousand added to the German bread line would not tend to improve conditions greatly.

For driving while intoxicated, a man 69 years old will spend a year in the county jail. At his age it hardly could seem that he would be glad to spend a year in such fashion.

There is a law which says the act of which this man was guilty is a felony. Whether the law has been pronounced unconstitutional, there is no information at hand. At any rate the courts do not apply it. If one year sentences become common, however, the need for it will be less pronounced.

It is said of a man on trial for the murder of his wife, that he danced merrily in the day of the victim's funeral.

Whether he is guilty of the crime charged is still to be determined, but he seems low enough to be guilty of any act in the whole list of felonies.

There must have been a queer condition of morals in the town of Gary, Indiana, before the agents of prohibition cleaned the place up a little.

Among the men found guilty of bootlegging were the mayor, the sheriff, prosecuting attorney and a municipal judge. It hardly would indicate. An official disposed to break his oath, ought to have the manhood to save himself this degradation by resigning.

A man angered by several burglaries of his residence went on guard one night, a shotgun across his knee. In due time he fell asleep, and then the burglar came and took his money and the gun, but was thoughtful enough not to disturb the nap.

Eternal vigilance is the price even of a shotgun.

When Governor Small of Illinois was so readily acquitted of serious charges, there was some surprise. Now some of the jurors who brought in the verdict are being officially requested to tell why they did it. There are hints that they were actuated by the highest motives.

In addition, the governor never yet has explained why he pardoned a batch of reds from the penitentiary, or that the fact that one of the prisoners was a millionaire had nothing to do with the case. Altogether, the lot of a governor is not necessarily a happy one.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Some one—a feminine some one—blatant in the next room a moment ago. She sounded like a combination of a sheep and a saxophone. On the evidence of her voice she has the intelligence of a sea shell and the darting wit of a pot of mush. I'd order her under hatches and the hatches battened down if I were a sea captain and she were unknown.

Yet she is one of the best women I know. More than that. She is positively brilliant. More important than that. She is as pretty as a setter pup, and that's the positively prettiest thing there is. She is tender hearted and womanly, too, and kind, and thoughtful.

But, Mr. Heavenly Hokum, what a voice!

Her mother has one just like it, for I've listened to the old lady with the same exquisite appreciation with which one hears the dentist's little buzzer roaring out the south forty of one's buccal cavity. Her aunt has one like that, too. Her aunt's voice isn't even under control. It's apt to take the helm unexpectedly and run down a well conducted conversation. It leaps from sharp to flat like a jazz orchestra. One of her sisters has that sort of voice, too. That's a pity. When a young and pretty girl sounds like a buckskin it hurts.

"Sure," you say, comfortably. "It's a family voice. They can't help it, poor devils."

Wrong. Wrong, wrong, wrong, wrong. She has two other sisters who have the softest, sweetest, dearest voices you ever listened to. I purr in sheer happiness at the sound of their voices. They were not brought up by Mother and Aunt and the elder sisters. Their voices were pruned and trained and toned.

Considered merely as an asset, a good voice is better than much fine gold.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

RESERVOIR FOR SPARR HEIGHTS NEARS FINISH

Located On East Side of the Verdugo Road, of Huge Capacity

It will not be long before the large reservoir now in construction in the hills on the east side of the Verdugo road, in Sparr Heights, will be completed. Its capacity will be 500,000 gallons of water and it will more than supply the growing demand of that rapidly developing community for some time to come.

Between five and six miles of eight-inch water mains have been laid in the first unit and work is to begin the first of next week, on the installation of the mains in the second unit.

Provision has been made for the construction of two more large reservoirs which will furnish an ample supply for all the needs of a population of 40,000 people—such as will be eventually located at Sparr Heights.

ONE AUTOMOBILE COLLISION HERE

An automobile driven by an employee of the Bradford Baking company of Los Angeles ran into a machine belonging to W. H. Ohlsen, 514 South Fisher street, while it was standing against the curb, according to a report turned into the Glendale police department yesterday. The right rear fender of the Ohlsen machine was damaged.

KIWANIS CLUBS TO BE WELCOME IN ATLANTA

[By Associated Press] ATLANTA, Ga., April 6.—Visitors to the Kiwanis international convention in Atlanta, the last week in May, will not be disappointed in their hope of seeing a Georgia staple, even though Georgia cotton is never open until close to midsummer, for the Atlanta hosts have announced their intention of transferring a whole cotton field to the stage of the Auditorium for this occasion, with a gang of real negro cotton pickers, composed of ancient anti-bellum fannies, little pickaninnies and one of the finest choruses of negro jubilee singers to be found in the South. This will be the principal scene of the big "Plantation Night" extravaganza to be given for the benefit of the Kiwanis visitors, who will be permitted to try their own hands at picking cotton after the final curtain has fallen.

The most elaborate entertainment features ever provided for a convention in the South are being planned by the committee of Atlanta Kiwanians. They include a "Glee Club" night, when Kiwanis clubs from all over the United States and Canada will compete in chorus singing; the "Plantation Night" feature, and a barbecue in old-fashioned Georgia style, which more than 5000 guests will be served, to be followed by a water carnival, special vaudeville and an elaborate fireworks display.

Reservations made indicate that the convention will be the most largely attended in the history of Kiwanis, even Canada sending 500 or more delegates and visitors. Several special trains are scheduled, with stop-overs at various cities along the route. The convention will begin on May 28 and continue through May 31.

LEGION NEWS

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the anarchy of both the classes and the masses; to make slight the power of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to conserve and sanctify our comradeship by our Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

The American Legion is an organization composed entirely of men who served in the World war, whose purpose it is to maintain and keep alive those ideals of patriotism and democracy for which that war was fought.

In a large measure, these are young men whose influence in the city is just beginning to be felt, but they are nevertheless the men upon whom America's immediate future depends.

As one whose business it is to train children for citizenship, I recognize the very great value of the American Legion as an aid and moral support to the educational forces of the country. The example of the members of this organization not only in serving their country in time of war, but also in devoting their thought and energy to upbuilding that country in time of peace, should be a great inspiration to our children as well as to ourselves.

As such it is worthy of our commendation and support, and I believe that this fact not only should be, but is, generally recognized.

RICHARDSON D. WHITE, Supt. Glendale City Schools.

Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, president, Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations:

I am not a member of the American Legion, neither have I any relative who is a member of the legion, so what I say in regard to the legion is not from any personal standpoint. I believe that the legion is 100 per cent American and stands for all the best interests of our country and our own Glendale. It stands for our best educational interests, during our Educational week, they furnished us excellent speakers in all schools.

The American Legion is not a political institution, and they are not sectarian.

It stands for the best morally and mentally and will protect our boys and girls.

The legion is composed of men and boys who offered their lives to save the world from devastation and destruction. Those who are strong among them, stand ready

MAY ABANDON FORT KEOGH

[By Associated Press] MILES CITY, Mont., April 6.—Residents of Miles City are anxiously awaiting the decision of Secretary of War John W. Weeks whether Fort Keogh, near here, will be abandoned.

Fort Keogh has long been one of the principal remount depots of the United States army. It was established as a fort by General Nelson A. Miles when he was commanding a force fighting Indians in eastern Montana in 1877. The following year it was officially established as a military post by President Hayes.

After the fort was abandoned as a garrison for troops it was maintained by the army as a depot for buying horses for the cavalry, and its long rows of stables are still in use for this purpose.

to help those of their number who are less fortunate.

Glendale needs her legion, and I am sure highly appreciates our post. The Glendale post has responded to every call of school, club and patriotic order.

And I would urge every citizen in Glendale to vote favorably on April 10, in regard to the purchase of a building site.

Glendale, one of the most patriotic communities, needs a home to house all of our patriotic orders.

Jesse E. Smith, president Glendale chamber of commerce:

I wonder if Glendale people know that the American Legion is heart and soul for every project and factor that makes America and its home town better? I wonder if Glendale knows of the tremendous good that is accomplished by the legion's educational work; the school children's essay on "Americanism" contest; the armistice and decoration day program; the work for good citizenship; care of the sick; unemployment bureaus; athletic and entertainment enterprises, etc.?

Do our citizens appreciate the Boy Scout movement which the legion is energetically backing?

When I was a boy, a real soldier, one who had served in a real war, had dodged bullets and knew real war-time camp life was as big to me as the Statue of Liberty, and so those of the legionnaires who came back must appeal to the boys of the troop sponsored by the Glendale post. It is a great work and measures up to the best that any organization is doing.

I think the legion is worthy of the confidence and backing of the community.

Danger - you need ICE!

Have you ever wondered what makes food spoil? It is caused by bacteria—microscopic organisms which multiply by the millions in temperatures of 50 degrees or over.

When the thermometer reaches that point, your perishable foods begin to deteriorate. Any perishable food kept in a warmer temperature is actually spoiling—a fact which every text book on hygiene teaches.

There is just one way to prevent this: Keep your perishable foods in a refrigerator; and keep the refrigerator filled with ice—every day in the year. The small cost of ice will be repaid many times over by the food you will save.

ASKS VOTES FOR BOND ISSUE

With a Population of
1,270,000 Facilities Are Unchanged for Years

Endorsed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, prominent clubwomen and civic organizations, a $7,000,000 county bond issue will be submitted to the voters of Los Angeles county at a special election May 1.

The issue is designed to finance additions and improvements at the County Hospital, the County Farm, the Olive View Sanatorium for tubercular patients and the construction of a new hall of justice and jail in Los Angeles.

Of the total sum, $5,000,000 is required to enlarge the plants and personnel of the hospital, farm and sanatorium. The remainder is for the construction of the hall of justice.

Conditions in the charitable institutions in the county are deplorable according to County Supervisor H. L. Wright. While Los Angeles county, at an unparalleled rate, has grown from a population of 600,000 to approximately 1,270,000 during the past eight years, the county institutions have struggled along with the same buildings and equipment as in 1914.

"At the county hospital," said Mr. Wright, "the daily patient population for the year ending June 30, 1921, was 1033; for the year ending June 30, 1922, the average was 1133, a daily increase of 94 patients."

"One of the serious results of this congestion is the necessity of rejecting admissions and the consequent overcrowding of the hospital. The total capacity of the hospital is 800 beds, and at the present time 1200 patients are being cared for."

"It is hard to realize the terrible conditions at the hospital without actually seeing them. In the tuberculosis ward beds are but 20 inches apart, and a patient is lying down with only a screen to separate him from the other inmates of the ward. There are 65 patients to the ward, where there should be only 30."

"In spite of this overcrowding, every day approximately 300 patients are turned away, because there is no room. Last year 45,000 people passed through the hospital. The total capacity of the hospital is 800 beds, and at the present time 1200 patients are being cared for. The remainder, 30,000, had to be cared for through the outdoor-relief department, wherever possible."

"An out-patient department

AMERICANS WIN PLACES ON OXFORD CREW, ONE AS STROKE, FOR RACE WITH CAMBRIDGE

would be of inestimable benefit to the majority of these patients. However, at present funds for the establishment of such a department are lacking.

"A children's hospital is urgently needed. At present, children are scattered throughout the hospital in various wards with adults, with absolutely no chance of proper care or segregation. The little ones, whose care demands entirely different methods than those used in the care of adults, are unable to receive this specialized care at present. If the bonds are voted, it will be possible to build a children's hospital, with equipment and facilities suitable for children."

"As more patients are admitted, more employees are required, and they must have adequate housing. The situation at the county farm is of the same nature. Built with a maximum capacity of 700, at present there are 900 inmates. So crowded are conditions that at least 75 men are sleeping in the loft of the barn. Beds are placed in the aisles, in corridors and in the open air. Psychopathic patients, any of whom might become raving and commit violent crimes at any moment, are being housed with other inmates, because there is no other place for them. There are 100 inmates of the general wards who must have their food carried to them, a service for which the farm is at present unequipped."

"In spite of the overcrowded conditions, the work of the county institutions is being carried on in an economical manner, according to Mr. Wright. The hospital is being operated at a less per capita expense than any similar institution in the United States, this statement being supported by available statistics. No. 26.

Farm revenues have increased from $23,000 in 1914 to $140,000 in 1921, yet during 1920 the new per capita cost was 10 cents per day less than similar costs in 1914, in spite of an increase of over 100 per cent in the cost of food and medical supplies. The dairy furnishes the milk not only for the farm, but for the hospital and Olive View sanatorium, and at present it is necessary to buy from $1000 to $1500 worth of milk every month. This milk could be supplied from the farm much cheaper than it can be purchased, but more land and equipment is necessary before this can be done."

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

It was never my goal or ill fortune, have it as you will, to mingle with the so-called great men of this world—kings, presidents, governors, and such. I never hobnobbed with U. S. senators or was invited to dine with congressmen, though I have been acquainted with a few in my day. But I did know one great man, one who was really and truly great. He lived in the little Illinois town I called home for more than thirty years, was my neighbor and everybody's neighbor. We called him Judge, and sometimes John. He called us by our first names, not only the boys but the men, for he had grown up with them, had played in their games, had shared their joys and sorrows. Yet he was chief justice of the Supreme Court of the great state of Illinois, and could have been a member of the United States Supreme Court had he but said the word. He was my friend and I looked up to and loved him. That man was John Scholfield, grown up from a simple farmer lad to become a lawyer, then a circuit judge and finally a justice of the Supreme Court of the state. He was never a politician. The people wanted him and as they cast their ballots for him. I do not think he ever made a political speech, for he was not in the least an orator. His term of office was nine years and when election time came around he made no appeal for re-election. He placed a modest paid announcement in the weekly newspapers of the district, not because he needed it, but because he knew the newspaper boys needed the money he paid for these announcements. He made no discrimination as to politics. Though he was mildly Democratic in his leanings, the Republican editors were his friends just as much as were those of the opposite faith. He bided tranquilly at home during his vacation, even in election years, seeking no votes, making no appeals for ballots, content to leave it all to the people. If they wanted him to serve again they'd cast their votes for him. If not, the other fellow would get them (if there was another fellow, for generally he was unopposed) and the people were supreme. His home life was ideal. With a wife who understood and sympathized with all his tastes and sons and daughters who were all that parents could wish, what more could be desired? He had courted and won the daughter of a leading citizen farmer, bred in all the householdly duties that girls in that age were happy to learn, whose every thought was for home and husband. She could milk a cow and feed the stock, if necessary, set the hens and care for the little chicks. All this she did, often, and was never ashamed of these homely tasks. Four manly boys and two sweet daughters graced the home and were given devoted care by this old-fashioned mother, who fed her babes from nature's fount and never neglected them for society's exactions. And the fame of her dear husband spread far and wide. When Grover Cleveland became our president for the second time there was a vacancy on the United States Supreme bench to fill, and John Scholfield was the man most widely recommended to him as the best fitted for this exalted position. The place was offered him, but he demurred. He was but a plain country lawyer, he said, elevated to the position he then occupied by the votes of his dear friends, the people, and he was not fitted for a higher position. But the president persisted, so finally he said it must be as "Emmy" said. So the good wife was sounded on the proposition and her answer was an emphatic "No." She and John were supremely happy in their home life, the children were growing up in healthful surroundings and she didn't want them exposed to the evils of wicked Washington city life. Besides, she did not want to leave her many relatives, the friends she had known from childhood, the cozy home and the want-supplying farm. But above all she had no love for society as it was known in the city and would not have her daughters exposed to its wicked allurements. The children were of course somewhat excited over the prospect of going to the nation's capital to live and the younger daughter envisioned society triumphs, but when mother declared so emphatically against it none of them murmured. Mother knew best. And "Emmy's" practical common sense prevailed, as always. President Cleveland was respectfully informed that John Scholfield preferred his home state and his own fireside, though he appreciated the honor done him in this offer from the nation's head

When John Scholfield's death occurred, at 60 years, the whole country honored his memory. Senators and congressmen attended his funeral and higher officials sent telegrams of sympathy to the bereaved family. This plain, rugged, honest, kindly man of the common people lived a happier, more contented life than most of those whom the world calls great.

Some of these "wise old saws" we read so much about and accept as "gems of thought," simply because we do not stop to analyze them, are neither wise, truthful, nor, in some instances, sensible. "Murder will out" is one of these, but the crime annals of the country are crowded with details of murders and other infractions of the law that never have been explained. Many astute criminals have by some fatal slip brought detection of their crimes after months or years, but, on the other hand, many murderers have gone to their graves unsuspected, even it is thought, for numbers of crime mysteries have never been solved, and some of these, it is quite sure, were committed by other than professional criminals. In some crimes of violence, murderers have remained undiscovered because wealth or influence so decreed, that family reputations might not be soiled. "We never miss the water till the well runs dry" is an extremely silly statement posing as a wise proverb. How can we miss a thing as long as we have it?

Wm. H. Thomas is a writer whose books, though exhibiting many crudities of diction, are yet intensely interesting because the adventures of the characters are thrillingly told, with historical accuracy. Some of them portray life in the Australian cities and gold fields and bristle with recitals of murderous deeds of pitiless bush-rangers. But his two books of special interest to Californians are "On Land and Sea" and "Lewie and L." These narrate the adventures of two boys who run away from home, voyage around the Horn and land at San Diego early in 1847, then journey from there up to Monterey, reaching that little pueblo about the time it is captured by Commodore Sloat of the American navy. Then they made their way down to Los Angeles and witnessed the only defeat suffered by American forces during the Mexican war. The description of this battle is said to be historically accurate. Los Angeles was still held by Mexican forces, but there was a small fleet of American warships at San Pedro harbor, ready to assist Gen. Fremont in his campaign to conquer the region now comprising Los Angeles, Orange and Riverside counties. A company of sailors and marines, many of them far gone in liquor, left their ships one morning, under the command of an officer of one of the ships, to demonstrate toward Los Angeles and feel out the size and strength of the enemy's forces. A brave young Mexican captain, apprised of the expedition, led a force from the city's garrison out to meet the invaders. He had one field piece, a four-pounder, and this proved to be the undoing of the sailors. As the latter rounded Dominguez hill, where the P. E. junction of the Long Beach and San Pedro lines now is, they espied the Mexicans, drawn up in battle array, awaiting them, with the field piece well to the front. The sailors, with a wild cheer, charged impetuously, but as they neared the enemy's force the cannon was discharged and several of the attackers fell. They recoiled but again advanced, with a like result. Had they pushed on, before the cannon could be reloaded, they would easily have scattered the enemy, but this they failed to do. After several unsuccessful charges, each one felled by the discharge of the little cannon, they retreated in disorder to their ships, with a loss of several killed and many wounded. Los Angeles, with all the region surrounding it, was surrendered to Gen. Fremont not long after this, and the spot where he signed the treaty of peace with the Mexican authorities is declared by some persons to be in Verdugo canyon, under an oak tree that is still standing.

and lemon groves have been subdivided into business lots within the limits of Glendale during the past year and an equal or greater number of acres of apricot and peach orchards. The Wing orange grove of 25 acres, the 20 acres formerly owned by Dr. Kate Black, the 20-acre Reynolds grove, A. B. Clements' 5 acres, the large acreage in the Thom and Ross ranches are included, as well as some small groves. The two citrus and packing houses that those and a few other groves kept going during the packing season are now pretty well deprived of material to work upon. Several thousand acres of ground, all within the limits of Glendale, have been subdivided recently. If these subdivisions are built upon as fast as is reasonably expected, a city of 100,000 people may be looked for within from five to ten years. But think of the thousands of tons of delicious fruit, yearly, that have been produced on these acres but will never be again; the quantities of health-giving vegetables, melons and the like that will no longer be grown here. If we make all of our land into city lots, we will soon have to import from long distances all our fruits and vegetables. But the subdividers and the buyers of lots never think of anything so vital to a community's health as this.

Long Beach, with a population approximating 100,000, has five daily newspapers, the same number as are published in Los Angeles, with close to a million people now that Eagle Rock has "joined." Four are afternoon papers. Can Long Beach support so many? We will see.

About 30 years ago the stalwart matrons of Robinson, Illinois, were shocked when a woman doctor hung out her shingle. She was Miss Martha Trimble, beautiful, of fine figure, a picture of health and of magnetic personality. She gradually won her way in the face of prejudice, but one day met W. C. Pearce, a young school teacher and fine Christian gentleman, who finally persuaded her that her mission was to look after his home and health exclusively. Soon he began to take an interest in Sunday school work and she became his most efficient aide. She was his inspiration and chief helper until her health failed. He became a state and then a national figure in Sunday school work and now he is the highest living authority in his line, known and loved all over the world. He is in California now and some of us will see and hear him in the coming weeks. He said in a recent address, that he had investigated closely hundreds of cases where men and women steeped in sin, some of them seemingly impossible of reclamation, had turned to Christ and become outstanding workers in His cause, and he had not found one such convert who did not say that some time in childhood or early youth he or she had received Sunday school training. Then does it not behoove all parents to make sacrifices, if necessary, to order that their children may attend Sunday school?

WOMAN POLOISTS READY FOR WAR

[By Associated Press] SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—A woman's polo team, believed to be the first ever formed in this country, composed of army nurses, is now "preparing for war" at the Presidio here. The fact that there are no other woman's polo teams has in no way discouraged the daily practice, which has been going on secretly for some time, for the nurses propose to vanquish the men's army teams, and the civilian aggregations as well. The members of the team are: Miss Ruth I. Taylor, lieutenant in the army nurse corps; Miss L. McBride, student nurse at Letterman; and the Misses Edna and Dorothy Jane Livingston, army nurse students, and daughters of Captain William C. Livingston, U. S. A., now stationed at Tacoma, Wash.
